Rescue, CA

Kathy began painting as a child but was a somewhat reluctant artist, being convinced it would lead to a life of poverty and starvation. After completing her Bachelor's of Art degrees in Environmental Studies and Spanish, and after several years of mind numbing graduate level economics, she was gainfully employed and ready to once again pursue her passion for painting.

Her more formal art education includes instruction by Hugh Liftson at Cornell College of Iowa, oil painting at the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington DC. Kathy has most benefited by instruction from Connie Randmaa of Pollock Pines.

Kathy delights in color and light, the beauty and power of nature and its relationship to humans.

Currently Kathy serves as President of the Sierra Pastel Society.
